commentary: getting kids involved with preparing meals helps expand their vocabulary and appetite to learn more.

The distribution of specialty physicians in the United States is geographically skewed, clustered largely in urban and academic centers. For example, infectious disease physicians account for about 5 percent of the nation's physicians, but they are concentrated in a handful of cities, such as Boston and New York.

commentary: broadband provides medical access.

More right-wing commentary, less news.